Cars of the future

What kind of car will be driving in 2050?. Rather different from the type we know today, with the next 50 years bringing greater change than the past 50 . the people who will be designing the models of tomorrow believe that environmental problems may well accelerate the pace of the car's development. Today there are students on the transport design course in different institutions.

Their vision of a machine with three wheels instead of four, electrically powered, environmentally clean and able to drive itself along intelligent roads equipped with built in power supplies. Future cars will pick up their fuel during long journeys from a power source built into the road, or store it in small quantities for travelling in the city.

Instead of today's seating arrangements two in front, two or three behind, all facing forward the 2050 car will have a versatile interior with all seated in a family circle.

The view of the future car is based on a much more sophisticated road system, with strips built into motorways to supply power to vehicle passing along them. Car will not need drivers, because computers will provide safe driving control and route finding. All the driver will have to do is to say where to go and the computer will do the rest. It will become impossible for cars to crash into one another. The technology already exists for the car to become a true automobile.

1. What do the car designers for next 50 years believe?

2. What is understood by intelligent roads?

.....

3. How will they manage the seats in the 2050 cars?

.....
